Winning Account Strategies

Give your salespeople the strategic edge they need in the all-or-nothing world of customer relationship management.

Today's salespeople play a high-stakes game—accounts can be won or lost to competitors not just until the next fiscal year, but for good.

Your ever-changing business climate makes long-term customer relationships more important than ever. To develop those relationships, your salespeople need to sell strategically. They need to understand everything about an account. They need to utilize rigorous strategic methods to secure business—and keep it.

That's why they need Winning Account Strategies, a brand-new workshop designed for salespeople and managers who already possess a solid foundation in sales call skills and are ready for the next step: a more strategic approach to maximizing sales opportunities and relationships with key customers.

This dynamic workshop—validated by recent AchieveGlobal sales performance research—teaches a five-step process for developing an account strategy. It introduces new concepts, tools and tactics salespeople can use to build solid, lasting customer relationships in today's competitive marketplace.

Benefits of Winning Account Strategies

Your salespeople:

- become more efficient at generating higher revenues more quickly
- learn critical strategies and tactics for acquiring—and keeping—new business
- increase their effectiveness by becoming strategic, knowledgeable, trusted business advisors
- leverage their colleagues' experience with real account situations, contributing to sales success

Your customers:

- develop lasting relationships with salespeople who understand their business realities and challenges
- are provided with solutions that address their specific organizational and personal needs
- get their business issues addressed because of the salesperson's focus on aligned solutions

Your organization:

- increases its success in winning new business and maintaining customer loyalty
- decreases costs through efficient, effective, strategic use of selling time
- reinforces organizational goals through its sales strategies

Workshop Highlights & Outcomes

With its business-issue customer focus and strategic high-level sales approach, this dynamic two-day workshop provides flexible, self-customizing tools and tactics. Participants:

- orient themselves toward a realistic, workable day-to-day account planning process
- capture key account information as the foundation for a strategic account plan
- apply the strategic account plan process to a target account
- create a strategic account plan that incorporates a customer-centered goal, account business issues, decision makers, factors, strategy, custom tools and tactics, and action steps

The highly interactive nature of Winning Account Strategies ensures all participants find the content applicable, relevant and easy to apply back on the job. The workshop:

- incorporates self-customizing components participants can apply to their unique account needs
- contains a variety of delivery methodologies that work for all learners
- utilizes participants' own real account knowledge and experience as they learn and apply the concepts and tools

Equipped with the tools and techniques learned in Winning Account Strategies, your salespeople become more confident and competent in:

- knowing how their organization aligns with their customers and the competition
- gaining customer commitment
- planning and strategizing accounts
- developing, maintaining and expanding positive customer relationships
- managing their time more effectively

Comments from Winning Account Strategies participants:

"The sooner we get this to the field, the better. We will walk out of this course with action items. We need to get it to the field now."

"This account planner is a living, breathing document. It will ultimately save time when briefing others in the organization about my account."

"I liked 100% of this program. I wouldn't change a thing."
